感謝香港青年總裁協會及香港樹仁大學頒予獎學金。我亦在此感謝學校督導黃慧儀小姐和聖雅各福群會健智支援服務中心的幫助，使我在實習中獲益良多。

實習過程中，我除了能把課堂上學到的輔導技巧和理論實踐，亦學習到如何提供有效的輔導服務及情緒支援，我更學會與不同專業的人合作，如社工、護士、復康助理等。從他們身上我看見如何更全面地照顧患有認知障礙症長者的健康。這些經驗都為我將來在相關行業發展時帶來很大的啟發。即使在其他工作行業中，我都能夠從多角度考慮不同人的需要，使大家合作得更順暢。

Through participating in the internship programme, I was fortunate to join a CPA firm, which provided me with an idea of the daily working schedule in a company, as well as a better understanding of the work environment in Hong Kong. Thanks to the arrangement of one of the partners, I was assigned to work in different departments, it has motivated me to equip with a proactive attitude and smooth communication skills. I have learned to be more meticulous when working in an accounting firm. Overall, this internship was a precious and fruitful opportunity for my future career planning.

Communicating effectively with your coworkers is key to an ideal internship experience. It is important to have a harmonious working environment, as it motivates employees to stay with the company. My most memorable experience was proofreading in both Chinese and English. Some sentences were not well written. For example, some sentences were a mixture of colloquial Cantonese and non-prescriptive modern Chinese. It has sparked my interest in knowing more about Cantonese or modern Chinese in formal and informal writing. Last but not least, I was also invited by my boss at Hong Kong Christian Service to make some videos to boost the morale of DSE candidates.

During my last year of study in Shue Yan, I participated in the internship programme organized by IAO and worked as an intern in a charity organization named Health in Action. I was assigned to deliver epidemic prevention materials to the working poor and educate them with health knowledge. By listening to their stories under pandemic, their experience has developed my empathy and my understanding to people's feelings and needs in my future career.

During the internship, my supervisors and colleagues have provided me with support and guidance to get through some difficult times. Their supportiveness was the driving force to success in this internship.

Last but not least, I would like to show my gratitude to my site supervisors, Emily and Myra, who have supported me along the way.

I have worked as an intern in the Hong Kong Confederation of Trade Unions during the summer vacation in 2020. I joined the research team of international and Chinese labor and wrote some articles. I realize that there is really something in society I should concern about but not only being a fan of a certain music band. The labor force is a fundamental part of our world, we should, therefore, give more attention to the situation of laborers. These two months long internship has invested my interest in Chinese labor and the political status quo. Besides, it makes me reckon that I have finally found my life purpose. It seems that the 23 years I have been gone through is just for this moment coming. I think it will be great if I can probably work in an NGO in my future.

I appreciated that I was offered three placement opportunities by the Hong Kong Shue Yan University. Not only could I experience different natures and types of service in the social welfare sector, but also expand my comfort zone. To me, a good placement exposure should provide opportunities for students to gain some new insights. In these two years, attempted three social work practices, has assisted me to explore and develop different possibilities. I used to have limited interest in my future career. However, after attempting different fields, knowledge and skills had been established. Also, through stepping out of my comfort zone, my sensitivity and awareness had been trained. Undoubtedly, the placements are fruitful and helpful to me.
